

SDSU School of Public Health
Institute for Public Health
Students Needed – Paid Positions

The SDSU Institute for Public Health (IPH) serves as a bridge between the public health academic community and public health practice by supporting the development of mutually beneficial partnerships between San Diego State University (SDSU) School of Public Health (SPH), local public health agencies, and private organizations.

The IPH is currently in need of multiple students to serve as short-term moderators/facilitators at community forums around the county in October and November. Forums are part of a larger initiative by the County of San Diego to gather feedback from community members on Behavioral Health Services in an effort to plan and improve future services.

Community forums will be held at 9 different locations around the county with 50 to 120 attendees per forum. Community members will be seated at round tables of 8-10 people with one moderator at each table. Students are asked to commit to at least 3 forums. The time commitment is 4 hours per forum.

Compensation

- Students will be paid $20 per hour ($80 per forum)

Duties

- Attend a training session to learn qualitative data gathering and facilitation
- Learn and communicate Behavioral Health Services
- Facilitate small group discussions, including note-taking
- Set up and break down events

Experience & Special Skills

- Bachelor's degree, Graduate degree in process @ SDSU
- Excellent oral communication skills
- Interpersonal skills
- Professional demeanor
- Desire to work with community members
- Ability to attend trainings and commit to 3+ forums

If interested, please send a brief personal statement, including why you are interested in the position, along with the forums for which you are available to Barbara Carlowe at bcarlowe@sdsu.edu
